① A (女): John, when you study Japanese, which is more difficult for you, to speak or to read?

B (男): To read is more difficult. Kanji is a big problem. I always use my dictionary.

A (女): I see. For me, speaking English is more difficult than reading.

B (男): You need to practice.

A (女): I think so too. I want to speak English more fluently.

Question: What is difficult for John when he studies Japanese?

② A (男): How was your first day at the tennis school yesterday, Rumi?

B (女): It was a lot of fun. I met my classmate there. She started playing last month.

A (男): You already have a friend there.

B (女): Yes. We'll practice together in the park next Sunday.

Question: What did Rumi do yesterday?

③ A (男): Shall we go shopping, Mom?

B (女): Sure, Ken. You said you wanted to buy a book for your homework.

A (男): Yes, but I don't have to. I already found it in the library. I want to buy a baseball cap.

B (女): OK. Let's go out at two.

Question: Why does Ken want to go shopping?

④ A (男): This white table is very nice.

B (女): Yes, but it looks too big for our room. I like that black one better. It's smaller.

A (男): I think the black one is too small. We need a big table. We often have guests and eat dinner together.

B (女): You're right. We'll take the white one.

Question: Why did they decide to buy the bigger table?
